Rules And Guidelines - Updated 23/06/2011 \(http://hd-bb.org/viewtopic.php?f=27&t=2435#p28933\)

Welcome to HD-BB, our internet home away from home. We are glad you found us! Please jump right in and post away. Even introduce yourself to everyone else and let us know as much (or as little) as you want us to know!

All Rules apply to ChatBox, as they do for the rest of the forum

NEW:

You need 12 posts minimum to be able to post URLs in your posts. (Anti-spam)

Guidelines:

1.) Quality NOT Quantity

HD-BB is all about quality. Our team strives to deliver the best quality releases possible. Our goal is not to provide the most releases in the fastest time possible but to provide the best quality releases.

2.) The Language thing

We do not support foul language on this forum. If you have to use swear words to try to get your point across, you will be banned. We want a clean, fun atmosphere for all of our members here at HD-BB. This rule applies to everyone including moderators and admins. No one will use foul language.

3.) Requesting Guidelines

a. When requesting Movies and TV shows:

An HD source must be available

You must have 20 posts, if you request without 20 posts you will receive a warning!

This does not apply to donators and VIPs!

Topic Title: [/i]Name movie/series like on IMDB, not something like My shagadelic movie request. You must also tag your request with [Movie] or [TV].

Topic Contents: Include a synopsis about what your requesting. DO NOT post a link to download an HD source, unless it's available here on HD-BB. It is however necessary to post the name of the source.

In case it's not available here, our encoders can find those or will contact you.

Voting: Create a poll and members will vote yes or no and this will evaluate the "demand" issue we see on a lot of other forums.

b. Requesting Help with something in our Helpdesk

When requesting help in our Helpdesk you must be as descriptive as possible. posting something like "I cant burn a DVD" may get you a warning and your topic binned. While we would be more than happy to help you, you must provide us with a basis to work from in order to give you the help you need.

Prepare your topic with as many details about your problem as you can. The more you explain about the problem at hand, the better response and the quicker your resolution will be. Do NOT PM a staff member asking them for help on issues that should be handled in the helpdesk.

5.) Reporting Posts

If you see anyone breaking the rules such as advertising, trolling, spamming etc., please report the post using the report button in the bottom right corner of the post. Also feel free to report for dead or broken links!

RULES (PAY CLOSE ATTENTION TO THESE):

1.) The Deadly Sins (may get you banned, so be careful)

- a. Spamming or trolling the boards (including but not limited to posting porn or virus links, or spamming your own personal website all over the place) or Posting other people's personal details without their permission, including emails, names and pictures etc.
- b. Identity theft – posing as another poster in order to fool people.
- c. Persistent bullying or abuse. And I don't mean you can't take the piss out of one another, call each other names or be dismissively rude to one another...where would the fun be in that? But I think we all know that a line has to be drawn somewhere. If you feel the line has been crossed, report the post and the user will be warned, and if it continues the user will be banned.
- d. Sexual posts, Racism, Discrimination and other forms of hate towards a group of people that don't look, speak or believe the same as you is not allowed. Healthy debate on any subject is fine, but again, we all know where the line is.
- e. Requesting invites to competitive forums are not allowed.
- f. DO NOT mini-mod. Moderators are here, let them do their job.

2.) Posting Rules/Etiquette

It is very important that you use proper posting etiquette on the forum. If any form of trolling, spamming, advertising or the like is found, a warning or ban will be issued according to the rules that are stated.

a. Double Posting

Double Posting is allowed however we do have restrictions. You may double post only within 24 hours of your first original post that was made. Any member found breaking this rule will receive a warning.

b. Topic Tags and Icons

When posting uploads, it is mandatory to use icons such as (MegaUpload) and (RapidShare). This will make things easier and faster for members to surf the forum. This also makes it easier for the staff if you have a request or a problem you need help with. Tags should also be used like [Request] and [Solved]

c. Coding Links

Code all of your links on this forum. This includes but is not limited to web addresses, download links, emails and FTP's.

d. Duplicating Encoded Posts/Topics

Anyone found re-posting a HD-BB member's encodes (leeching) without permissions will be given a warning, any future violations will result in a ban.

e. Invite Codes

DO NOT ask for invite codes to any site on the general forum. Invites may be posted in the VIP section.

3.) Spoilers: Keep them out of the thread title and content of your post. Simple as that

4.) Advertising

Advertising of any kind is strictly prohibited. Any advertising found in the forum, signatures or Topic titles will be not be tolerated. This includes but is not limited to website address, images containing addresses, bargaining, trading and selling items.

5.) Posting Guidelines. [NOTE: The following applies to Movies and TV]

a. m-720p/m-1080p-

Must be from an HD source and encoded with an HD codec (x264, AVC). XVID is not permitted. Anything below an HD source (DVD, TS, TC, Cam, R5, etc.) will be moved to the Graveyard.

Filesize should be proportionate to the length of the movie. An average movie that is 90 to 120 minutes in length should not be excessive in size. Exceptions would be movies that are around 3 hours or more in length or an encode at 1080p. Movies that are too large in filesize in relation to the length of the movie or the resolution will be moved to the full High Definition section.

Overall bitrate should be at least 2300 and audio bitrate should be no less than 256. Resolution should be at least 1280 x ____ . Encodes with lower resolution or bitrates will be moved to the m-HD section.

b. m-HD :

Must be from an HD source and encoded with an HD codec (x264, AVC). XVID is not permitted.

Anything below an HD source (DVD, TS, Cam, R5, etc.) will be moved to the Graveyard.

Filesize: No minimum as long as quality is decent.

Video: 500kpbs bitrate minimum.

Audio: 5.1 channel with 128kbps bitrate

Audio: 2ch audio is allowed for 700mb or smaller encodes

[*]Topic title's/descriptions must not contain "awesome quality" etc. statements. After all the encoders aren't the ones deciding whether an encode is great quality or not.

6.) Billboard Rules

Promoting releases to billboard is only available to VIP/Donators and HD-BB Encoder Team.

If you are a VIP/Donator and you want to promote your work please contact Global Moderator or Admin.

7.) If all else fails:

If you have a problem with a particular person, thread or post, or any other questions, suggestion, or complaints PM an admin and we will deal with at as appropriate. Please note – this does not mean we will automatically delete it. We will try to keep the peace as much as possible.

All rules are subject to change at any time.

Read Before Posting Encodes ~ Updated 20th June (http://hd-bb.org/viewtopic.php?f=27&t=25221#p187096)

Update 20th June:

m720p/m1080p section updated: RC rips are BANNED

Many of the following Rules and Guidelines listed below are already in place, however, it has become necessary to clarify some issues to help alleviate some problems we have had lately. This post is simply a reminder or a supplement to the current Rules and Regulations already in place

1. This forum is committed to high quality. The source of your encode can only be derived from Blu-Ray, HD-DVD, or HDTV and they must be encoded in x-264 or AVC-1 codecs, the container is at the encoder's discretion. The source of your encode can not be taken from another encoder's work, unless you are downgrading the quality to a lower level (m720p to mHD or mHD to Portable). XVID is not allowed.

2. You must post your own encode. Reaping the benefits of another person's hard work will not be tolerated. The posting of another member's encode without their permission is strictly forbidden.

3. You must code your links!

4. Topic must contain adequate information about the encode, to include but not limited to:

- Source
- Filesize
- Resolution
- Bitrate (Audio and Video)
- Sample (Pictures or short video clip)

5. If the movie is dubbed this must be clearly stated in the title and the post, along with the dubbed language and the original language.

6. Billboard promoting feature only available to VIP/Donator and HD-BB Encoder Team.

7. Ensure that you are posting in the right forum. [NOTE: The following applies to Movies and TV]

a. m-720p/m-1080p-

Must be from an HD source and encoded with an HD codec (x264, AVC). XVID is not permitted. Anything below an HD source (DVD, TS, TC, Cam, R5, etc.) will be moved to the Graveyard. Filesize should be proportionate to the length of the movie. An average movie that is 90 to 120 minutes in length should not be excessive in size. Exceptions would be movies that are around 3 hours or more in length or an encode at 1080p. Movies that are too large in filesize in relation to the length of the movie or the resolution will be moved to the full High Definition section.

Overall bitrate should be at least 2300 and audio bitrate should be no less than 256.

Resolution should be at least 1280 x ____ . Encodes with lower resolution or bitrates will be moved to the m-HD section.

b. m-HD :

Must be from an HD source and encoded with an HD codec (x264, AVC). XVID is not permitted. Anything below an HD source (DVD, TS, Cam, R5, etc.) will be moved to the Graveyard.

Filesize: No minimum as long as quality is decent.

Video: 500kpbs bitrate (Portable Encodes can be less, quality must remain decent)

Audio: 5.1 channel with 128kbps bitrate

Audio: 2ch audio is allowed for 700mb encodes

RC encodes are BANNED from Micro Section.

TV SHOWS

1. Topic Subject.

To help alleviate some of the clutter we have experienced, please edit your current topics and make your new topic titles in this format

(The objects in red are optional, since not all of them will his this info)

Show Title | Season (Indicate Complete or not) | Episode | Resolution | Source | Year | Encoder/Group

Examples..

Complete Season

Heroes | Complete S3 | 720p | Bluray | 2007 | Ironhide

The Office |Complete S1 | mHD | HDTV | Rachel

Lost | S6 | m720p | HDTV | update ep 13 (this is for shows currently on the air)

Individual Episodes

Fringe | s01 | e04 | 720p | HDTV | 2008/09 | Jazz

House | s06 | e12 | mHD | Bluray | Bumblebee

2. Complete Season Posts.

We are now requiring that you only post one complete season per topic. The exception to this rule are shows that are off the air.

3. Current Running Shows

If you are actively encoding a show that is currently on air, it is crucial that you include in the topic title the most recent episode. Indicating "Weekly Updates" is not acceptable.

Minimum Requirements

m-720p/m-1080p

Video Codec: AVC or x264 ONLY (Xvid encodes will be sent to the graveyard.)

Video bitrate: 1500 Kbps minimum

Audio Code: AC3 5.1 (AAC is permitted but strongly discouraged, low quality will be sent to Graveyard)

Audio bitrate: 192+

m-HD

Video Codec: AVC or x264 ONLY (Xvid encodes will be sent to the graveyard.)

Video bitrate: 500 Kbps minimum

Audio Code: AC3/AAC 5.1/2.0 (All others will be sent to the graveyard)

Audio bitrate: 128+

6 Minimum Video Bitrate Suggestion. The following is a guideline for the minimum bitrate for the appropriate encode. This is not a strict rule, each encode is a case by case basis. However, if an encode has such a low bitrate that quality suffers as a result, the encode might be sent to the Graveyard.

- m-720p -> 2100Kbps
- m-1080p -> 4725Kbps
- 720p -> 4450Kbps
- 1080p -> 10000Kbps

Encoders, the staff here at hd-bb.org appreciate the contributions you make to this wonderful community. If you have any questions, concerns, or need clarification on anything, please contact a member of the staff.

Re: Hotfile goes to war against uploaders (http://hd-bb.org/viewtopic.php?f=10&t=96015&start=60#p413646)

It's a shame what happened with HF service. I had just purchased a 1 year account because it was the option most used in this website (and in other movies websites too). And very few use megaupload in this place. If I decide to buy another account, maybe I will chose fileserve and not for more than 90 days, because this service (or another most popular) could be the next

It's really sad. I've noticed the hotfile links being dead on this site and other hostsites. I'm more then happy to use megaupload, rapidshare, or filesonic. Bye, hotfile. You won't be missed.

Megaupload is my favorite, too, Jinxie2. It has been for a while. Filesonic has been really good to me, too. I don't like the longer wait times for rapidshare, but I still think it has been better than Hotfile.

Why Not Mirror To BitTorrent? \(http://hd-bb.org/viewtopic.php?f=27&t=45197#p254556\)

Hello, I'm just wondering why don't posters also use bittorrent as another mirror. It's has certain advantages over file hosters such as no link killing. All posters have to do is seed. And if you want to, you can have a seedbox to ensure your releases have the best speeds and that would also free you from seeding from your main computer.

So an encoder/uploader would upload to, say MU, RS and also make a torrent of the encode and seed it himself or upload it to a seedbox.

The best thing about torrents is that once you mirror to that, you don't need o mirror to a bunch of other file hosts.

Can you guys think of this idea and try to make it work? Can you test this idea in a few uploads?

Re: Why Not Mirror To BitTorrent? (http://hd-bb.org/viewtopic.php?f=27&t=45197#p254643)

Just my 2 cents.

Given the current climate in the USA and other regions in regards to torrenting I think its not the best time for that.

Example you have the Hurt Locker producers filing 50,000 thousand lawsuits this month along with many other indy film makers. P2P is not really to secure atm for some and direct hosts are faster/more discrete.

Also the encoder has to take the time to upload the encode to RS MU ect. I'd rather they take that time and BW to upload other movies and not have to seed them which takes allot of bw/time. Also I'd hate to see them get into trouble because of one of their torrents.

I can understand some reasons as to why some people may not have a Premium account but using MU as free user especially during happy hours is pretty good. I grabbed a movie off there in about an hour cause the RS links were dead. So I don't really see why someone would want to torrent it which probably would take much much longer to download.

OFC if other people apart from the original encoders wants to seed their stuff and mirror it that way I'd say have at it as long as the original encoder is ok with it.

Regarding what's happening in the US, the USA is not the whole world. Besides, even if you're in the US there's ways to stay anonymous such as VPNs and tunnels.

As for the Hurt Locker suit, its a multi-million dollar suit, if it costs that much there's a good chance they might not end up with as much money as they started out with. One thing I hope this suit does accomplish is incite debate about the nature of the internet, network neutrality and online privacy. The RIAA tried something like this and failed.

DVDrips, mHD and I daresay m720p are as common today as MP3s were 7 years ago. The only solution is to make a legal service that has better distribution than piracy, better or equal quality (HD, highly compressed digital files; not cumbersome blu-ray discs) and that has a competitive price with file hosts (subscription based, not per-movie BS) and no DRM!

Keep in mind that I'm suggesting Torrent as a complement, not an alternative to file hosting. At best, it could be a replacement for the third, fourth... mirrors. So uploader uploads to file host 1 and 2 (or just one), but then seeds to torrent instead of uploading to more hosts.

As for wasting time and bandwidth, I'd say it takes about the same if you factor in the re-ups required to keep links alive due to link killing and links expiring.

You're right that it's up to the encoders if admins/mods don't see a prob with posting torrents to the site. So can I get some feedback from encoders, please? Have any of you tried posting to BT in the past? or are you willing to try this out?

Re: Why Not Mirror To BitTorrent? (http://hd-bb.org/viewtopic.php?f=27&t=45197#p254710)

for forums they tend to stay as file hosts only. i prefer this because if pople want torrents they can search torrent sites. for torrents the uploader will have to pay for seedbox aswell as a VPN so its going to cost mroe than it would for a file host. with a file host you can pay for a months account then upload and your gunna have the account for life for free with all the points you get from downloads.

also uploading a file isnt as bad as trying to seed it out to tons of people. you can upload a file to one file host then remote upload it to others. this way you dont use your home bandwidth and is really quick. you can even uplaod it twice as most remote uploaders allow for md5 change so if one set of links get reported u always got backups. with the amount of people who upload you are always gunna find some links for what you are looking for

This guy's exactly on the money. P2P's looking pretty sketchy and demands that someone's online all the time seeding -- which is where the MPAA and all of that will get ya. If/when anything goes down attacking the availability of pirating (say, against rapidshare) we should become a closed community. Megaupload (for free users) is great; sure although I've an RS account i still can leave things downloading with jDownloader.

Anyway, bigwigs are chasing P2P, let's stick to RS (& MU). If anything happens, the files get deleted, it becomes untraceable, and nobody gets sued.

what i do know is bitorent sites often get sued and have allot of server issues due to it (constantly change locations)

also its easy for companies to track illegal activity of torrents and ISP to restrict bandwidth file hosting u pay a year fee that you can download anything as much as u want

There are 3 different peoples involved in tracking and prosecuting P2P users, The film/record companies, the ISP and the Police.

I work for one of those groups and I can tell you that IP addresses are being harvested from P2P networks (and have been for some time). I don't touch P2P for anything unless it's old and then they aren't watching those files.

The only reason there aren't more prosecutions of individual users is the Police don't have the time or resources to investigate, however if enough political pressure is applied they may have to find the time..

These are not my opinions, they are facts.
